

In Dream Flights on Arctic Nights a kiddo flies with three guide birds to visit the animals of Alaska.

Today you will need:

Paper
Crayons, markers, colored pencils, or paints

- If you were to take a flight, where would YOU want to go? would it be somewhere close—maybe to see your friends at the rec center...or would you go somewhere far—like to see the pyramids in Egypt! (For this drawing game you don't need to stay at home on your paper!)
- What bird would you want to fly with?

FRIDAY FLIGHT:

- Draw a picture of you, your bird, and where you are going!
- Can you draw it like you are looking down from above? Or is there a different VIEWPOINT you would like to use?

Test two viewpoints on quick thumbnail sketches before you start your artwork

Think of all the VIEWPOINTS you can use: Looking from: above, below, close-up, into the water, far away, what else?

If a view from above is called a Bird's Eye View, what should we call a viewpoint from the ground?

- Art show time! Tape your pictures outside on your porch or in your window next Friday to make a show and invite me to come see it! (from a distance!)
- OR share a photo of your picture with me at evon@evonzerbetz.com
- BONUS: Write a story about your picture for me.

I had fun seeing your pictures and reading your stories from the MOON CHALLENGE last week. Be Well!

Evon Zerbetz

www.evonzerbetz.com